

Copyrighted Contents

What to do if you want us to remove certain copyrighted comments and other pieces of stuff from our website?

Please note that we try our level best NOT to host any copyrighted content on this website. However, in case if it becomes the need of the time then we give proper credit and a backlink to the host of the content owner on our site.

On the other hand, the comments (text) contains only information shared by users that do not contain data that might be copyrighted in any way. However, Our team offer a service to remove comments from our website if the copyright holder of the content requests so. These removal requests are only valid if:

You are, or your company is, the copyright holder of the content in question.

You provide the exact URLs to the comment and proved to be the genuine owner of the contents you are claiming for.

You provide the complete name(s) of the content in question.

You send the removal request using a verifiable email address (e.g. address@yourname/yourcompany.com).

Please keep the correspondence polite. We remove postings as soon as we can, maximum within a week. But please keep in mind that we can only handle removal requests that comply with the above rules.

If your request complies with all of the aforementioned rules, send a mail to Info@whatmcqs.com
