

A device which converts chemical energy into electrical energy is called:

A device which converts chemical energy into electrical energy is called:

- a) motor
- b) generator
- c) moving-coil meter
- d) battery

A battery is the device which converts chemical energy into electrical energy. Battery converts stored chemical energy into useful electrical energy.