

The graveyard of Red Blood Cells is known as

A. Liver

B. Lungs

C. Spleen

D. Heart

The graveyard of Red Blood Cells (RBC)

Spleen is called the graveyard of Red Blood Cells.

What is a Spleen?

A Spleen is a long dark-red oval shaped organ situated on the left side of the body. It lies between the stomach and the diaphragm. Spleen produces cells involved in immune responses.

869