

The study of day-to-day variations in weather is called ____

The study of day-to-day variations in weather is called ____

- a) Meteorology
- b) Climatology
- c) Cyclogenesis
- d) Environment science

The study of day-to-day variations in weather is called meteorology, whereas in climatology we study patterns of atmosphere over a period of time.